For Writing an Argumentative Thesis

Follow the steps below to formulate an argumentative thesis statement. All boxes must contain text. To learn how to write other kinds of thesis statements, please see our Writing a Thesis \(/writing-a-thesis\) page.

1 State your topic

Your topic is the essential idea of your paper. It is usually a few words or a phrase that summarizes the subject of your paper. For your thesis statement, try to make your topic as specific as possible.

Learning in E-book

State your main idea about this

2 State your main idea about this topic

What are you trying to state or prove about your topic? What are you trying to persuade the reader to believe? When stating your opinion, be sure to...

- express one major idea
- name the topic and assert something specific about it
- take a stance on an issue that you can support with facts and reasons.
- state your position on or opinion about the issue.

Students should actively use e-books to learn.

3 Give a reason that supports your main idea

Write your reason as a clear statement. Be sure that you can support this reason with logical facts and evidence.

E-books have the advantage of convenient search.

4 Give another reason that supports your main idea

Write your reason as a clear statement. Be sure that you can support this reason with logical facts and evidence.

All materials can be managed in a centralized location.

5 Give one more reason that supports your main idea

Tell us one reason that supports your opinion. Write your reason as a clear statement. Be sure that you can support this reason with logical facts and evidence.

Can be purchased immediately online

6 Include an opposing viewpoint to your main idea, if applicable

A good thesis statement acknowledges that there is always another side to the argument. So, include an opposing viewpoint (a counterargument) to your opinion. Basically, write down what a person who disagrees with your position might say about your topic.

Initial costs such as communication environment and devices are required
